GEOEXPLORER 2003 VS. 2005 SERIES - CHARGING CRADLES

The Trimble 2005 Series Handheld comes with a new style charging cradle. The cradle appears to be the same as the previous model (2003 series) because it is approximately the same size. However, there are some noticeable differences:

1. Trimble has changed the color from black on the 2003 series cradle to a gray color with "2005 Series" written on the middle of the cradle
2. There are 12 pins on the new cradle compared to 10 on the 2003 series
3. The 2005 series cradle also has an Ethernet connection at the top where the 2003 series does not.

Please make sure to refer to the documentation when you receive and inspect these charging cradles for proper connection. Page 35 of the Trimble Getting Started Guide also reminds users that these charging cradles are not compatible.

Placing the 2005 series Geo on a 2003 series cradle will not damage the unit, but the handheld will not take a charge on the incorrect cradle. For best performance make sure to use the proper charging cradle for the handheld you have.
